PACIFIC PATTERNS '53 is the story of the second Korean cruise of the USS KEARSARGE, CVA-33, with Carrier Air Group ELEVEN Embarked on its third tour in the Far East. The story begins with the end of the "Mighty Kay's" previous cruise, thus taking you, the reader, thru one complete cycle of our AirPac existence: the trip home, disembark air group, leave, replacements, carquals, UTE, embark new air group, ORI, Yokosuka, and eventually right back where you started—on the line. That's why we named it PACIFIC PATTERNS—because our whole Navy life follows the same orderly repetition—chronological, geographic, . . . even physical (look at the patterns around you, in your daily tasks, in the ship and the planes themselves). Yes, just change a few hull numbers and a few aircraft markings, and from a distance you can't tell the cruise of one AirPac CVA or CVG from another. However, there IS one thing about this cruise that makes it different, and makes its story worth telling—and that is the fact that you, the reader, made it. So come along and see your story. See the pattern of life in the Pacific in 1953. . . .

CAPTAIN CLARK: "Every cruise book has a missing link... That link being the last few weeks of a cruise after the book has become the printer's worry I shall try here to provide that link... our thoughts... our emotions... the entire happy business of returning home on the KEARSARGE after seven months, most of which were spent in combat...

February 28, 1953:

"We are approaching the bitter end of our fourth tour on the line.

The war is at its height across the slender waist of Korea. The entire effort of Task Force 77, of which we are a major unit, is being concentrated on keeping the Communist forces off balance and denying them men and materials to enable their sustaining a major offensive. Our daily task is interdiction, close air support, Cherokee strikes, reconnaissance and night heckling. Their AA has shown steady improvement and our losses have mounted. Three of our four squadron commanders are listed among those who will not return with us.

These last days are the hardest by far. The very nearness of the end begins to nibble at men's courage... the bitter cold of February gale winds... icy seas lashing at the bellies of the planes as they pitch off the catapults... angry gun flashes visible in the grey dawn.

Such is our last day on the line before returning home. Be it to the credit of the pilots who flew that final day and the men who supported them that not a single sortie is missed or aborted. A straight Charlie Zebra throughout. With a hearty "Well Done" from Jehovah we head out of the Sea of Japan for Yokosuka...

Uppermost in every mind as Korea falls below the horizon is the intoxicating prospect of getting home. Emotion runs high and needs a ready outlet, with seven thousand miles of water and twenty days steaming standing between the afflicted and the object of his affection. The outlet is readily found—to dress up our KEARSARGE again for her proud return. All hands turn to with a vengeance. The rasp of wire brushes and scrapers and the smell of paint is to be a heady diet for the next nineteen days. We are determined that the KEARSARGE shall steam into her home port looking her nautical best, reflecting the jubilant spirit of our own hearts, rather than appearing a war weary, sea-ravaged, rust-streaked, and dispirited old lady...

Only one disturbing thought remains. For six months we have been joined in relentless battle. We recount the tons upon tons of bombs and ammunition we have hustled aboard from the ever present replenishment ships and expended with unequalled dispatch and determination against the Communists within a matter of two or three days. We have repeated the process over and over. Our sister ships and brother services have multiplied our effort thousands of times and yet apparently the situation remains unchanged. We seem to be just about where we started. As American fighting men we are not used to battle without advance, war without victory. This conflict has no end in sight, our scheduled period in the States is woefully short and many of us must return again.... But these perplexing thoughts do not linger, our minds being more pleasantly occupied with the prospect of getting home.

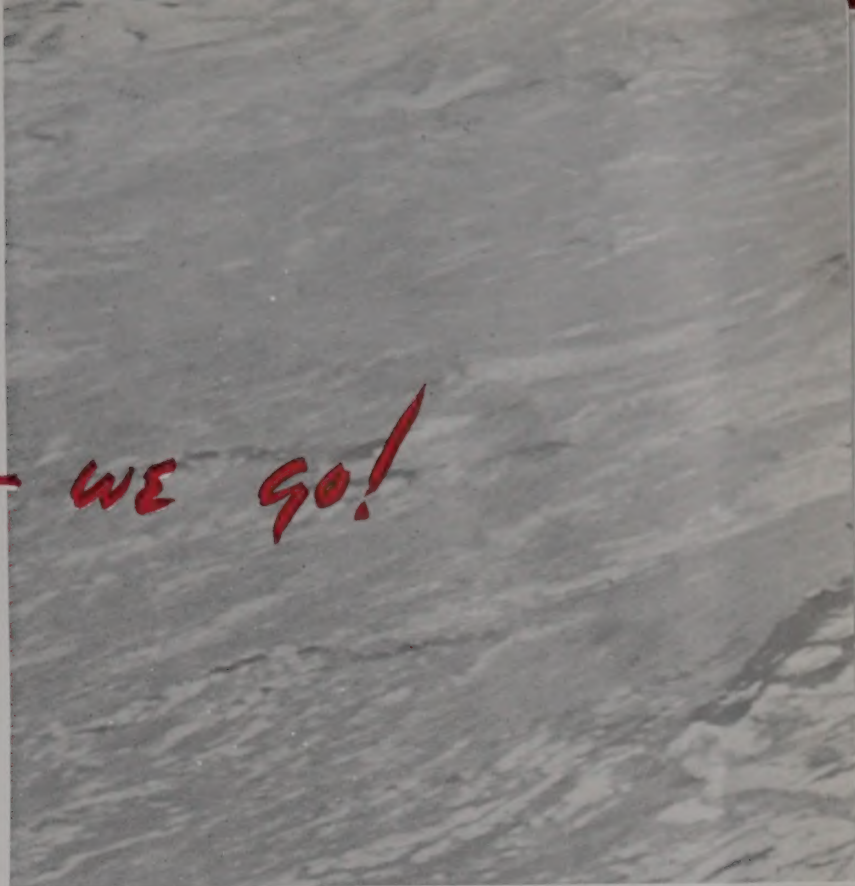

We slide into Yokosuka harbor with the first light. Our relief, the PRINCETON, follows us in by a few hours.

We rush to turn over our files, dope sheets,.... the word.

Two hectic days of last minute shopping and we slip our mooring, then quietly pass outbound through the nets. Lest we forget her too quickly, Fujiyama with a rare display of hospitality sheds her usual shroud of clouds. Her winter cap glistens in the morning sun as she rears majestically over Nippon to bid us 'Sayonara'."

Princeton comes — we go!

"Eight days of fine cruising ease us into warmer latitudes. Finally we turn into that coral edged channel and enter Pearl Harbor. How peaceful it seems. The bugle shrills "attention to port" and our white clad ranks salute the flag that flies from the barely awash deck of the ARIZONA, the tomb of eleven hundred men of her valiant crew. We ease alongside Pier Fox to thrilling strains of Hawaiian melodies and watch lithe brown maids wiggle their hula greetings. With a tighter than usual grip on our pocket books we succumb to one more short visit to romantic Waikiki. A second morning we bid Aloha to Diamond Head. There is no sadness in leaving, for we are heading east in growing anticipation of better things. Our last lap homeward. We break out our blues and hear the long list of Korean Commendations echo through the hangar deck. We take every reasonable liberty with our sailing orders to advance our arrival by miles and minutes. Six interminable days and nights and we raise San Clemente Island in the darkness and reckon passing the San Diego harbor entrance-buoy at daylight. Our scheming goes for naught. Ten miles off the buoy a signal is received... "Do not enter port until 0900." How unsympathetic can people be, we ask ourselves as the ship is heaved-to five miles out. We watch the dawn become morning. The decks are lined with men gazing shoreward through the mist. At long last the ship begins to throb and we stand up the final channel. Ballast Point is abeam to port at precisely 0859 and we stand down the harbor length at a snail's pace. Our assigned pier is hidden from sight until the very last minute. A thrilling spectacle emerges from behind the intervening buildings... and the reason for our enforced delay becomes clear....

"The dockside is swarming with people to greet us. A band, led by comely majorettes, hundreds of uniformed personnel, scads of romping children and above all the brilliant patchwork of the gay dresses of wives and sweethearts are a stirring picture for KEARSARGE eyes....

HOME...

"As we draw alongside the pier,
faces take form and are recognized.

Stomachs become a little empty, throats tighten and eyes begin to water slightly with the sudden realization that we are really back. This warm demonstration is born of a genuine sincerity and appreciation.

We stand at solemn attention as the president of the Navy league delivers a welcoming address on behalf of the civil populace. He is followed by the official welcome of our commander, ComAirPac. Official ceremonies concluded, bedlam reigns as wives, children and sweethearts scramble aboard to deliver their special greetings to the subjects of their affections. The hangar deck echoes a symphony of laughter, shrieks and a few soft sobs clearly entitled..."HOME".

We put on our "Sunday best" and gave the house an early spring cleaning. Then thanks to the artistry of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra we heard the first symphony ever played on a flight deck. That was, despite the fact that our women looked a little doubtful riding the deck edge elevator, the air was nippy, and the music was in competition with a helicopter. But the Whirly Bird suffered a rare defeat—and circulation returned to our feet when the hangar deck became a ballroom.

ENTER, AIR GROUP ELEVEN...

Some thirty miles away, at Miramar Naval Air Station, planes and men were approaching the final stage of readiness. Air Group Eleven, many of whose members were already battle-proven veterans of the Korean War, was preparing for another tour.

The pilots were piling up hours, the mechs were checking every wire and turbine blade, the plane captains were putting the local car-wash to shame... as the day of departure neared.

Less than a year before, Air Group Eleven had returned from the Far East with the PHILIPPINE SEA. Re-organization brought new faces and new aircraft. Fighter squadrons 112, 113, and 114 unwrapped shiny F9F-5

Panthers to replace their F9F-2's and Corsairs. The air group was to be the first to operate off Korea as an all-jet fighter outfit. Attack Squadron 115 retained the workhorse of carrier warfare... the Douglas Skyraider.

Even the pace of the off-hours play which the boys somehow managed to save time for—picked up in intensity. You might say, making up for lost time in advance.

After reaching full strength in December, 1952, ELEVEN, under the leadership of CDR E. G. Schwab, began an intensive training period which included five weeks of aerial gunnery and rocket practice at El Centro, California and three series of carrier qualifications... on the BOXER, YORKTOWN and finally on the KAY. It was during the BOXER stint that ELEVEN made the first touch-and-go landings on an Air Pac carrier.

You couldn't prove it by two enemies in two wars, but CVG 11 was to meet its match on the cruise ahead. The relatively-ancient Air Group 11 was to complete . . . year eleven of naval service on 10 October, by flying 82 sorties near the Nationalist Chinese fortress of Formosa.

One of the oldest intact air groups, ELEVEN was commissioned on Navy Day, 1942, at San Diego. During World War II it took part in the Guadalcanal campaign and conducted the first daylight raids on Bougainville. Following a brief stay in the States, the Air Group participated in the Admiralties campaign of 1944. The group operated in the escort carriers MANUS ISLAND, NEW BRITAIN and the big HORNET.

Eleven was almost completely dissolved after the Japanese surrendered. Gradually it was reformed, making a world cruise on the VALLEY FORGE from October, 1947 to June, 1948. It was the end of its globe-circling that CDR James W. O'Grady, present executive officer of the KEARSARGE, became CAG 11.

July 4th, 1950 . . . nine days after the Communists marched on South Korea, Air Group ELEVEN headed for the familiar Western Pacific on the PHIL SEA for the first of its three Korean tours. One pilot, LT J.J. "Whitey" Gramlich, of VF-113 has been with it on all three . . .

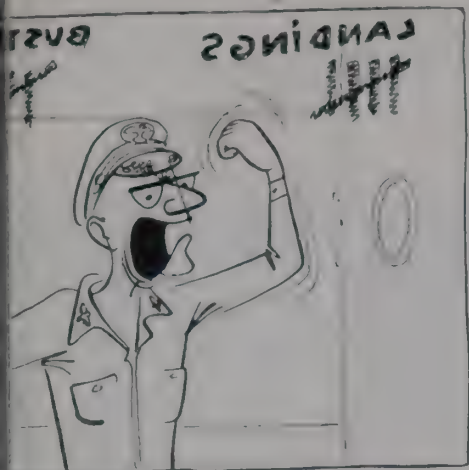

"Liberty expires on board at 1400 Sunday..." Back to work. The end of April and first week in May were devoted to carquals and a maneuver called PHIBEX... To top it off, we spent a potential liberty night at anchor off Coronado....

No wind, no room to operate and later on, no F9's and F2H's with nose wheels...

A VACATION SPOT....

....AMMUNITION

From 2000 Sunday to 2000 Wednesday — 3", 5", bombs
and small arms ammo found their way through hoists to stacks to skids to stacks to skip boxes to barge with plenty of muscle work at each stop....

SAND, BLAST IT. . . .

A new record: all explosives offloaded in 51 hours working time . . . . Now the First Lieutenant and the yard workers took over the delicate task of setting our Kay smack on her keel, and the engineers broke out their blueprints . . . .

OUR AMMO RETURNS

Liberty was uncertain those days.... "Gosh, I don't know, honey — whenever we get through unloading ammo...." For some, this was closer to home than San Diego. For others, the wife moved home from San Diego. And the rest of the ball and chain fraternity made their nightly run down there. At any rate, we were certainly a baggy bunch, waiting for the 0700 boat each morning at Pico Street....

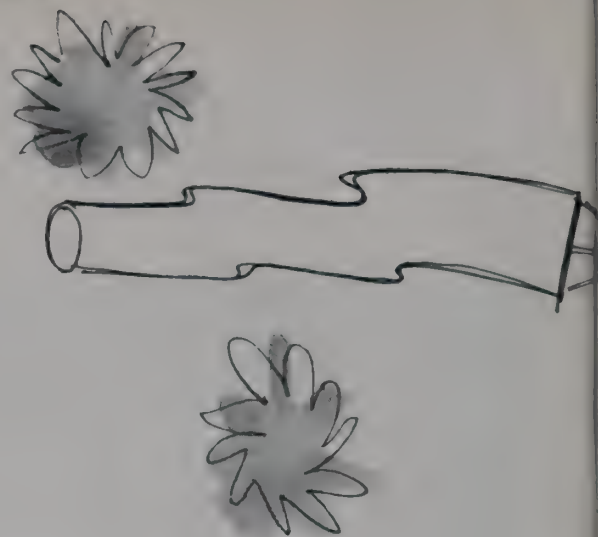

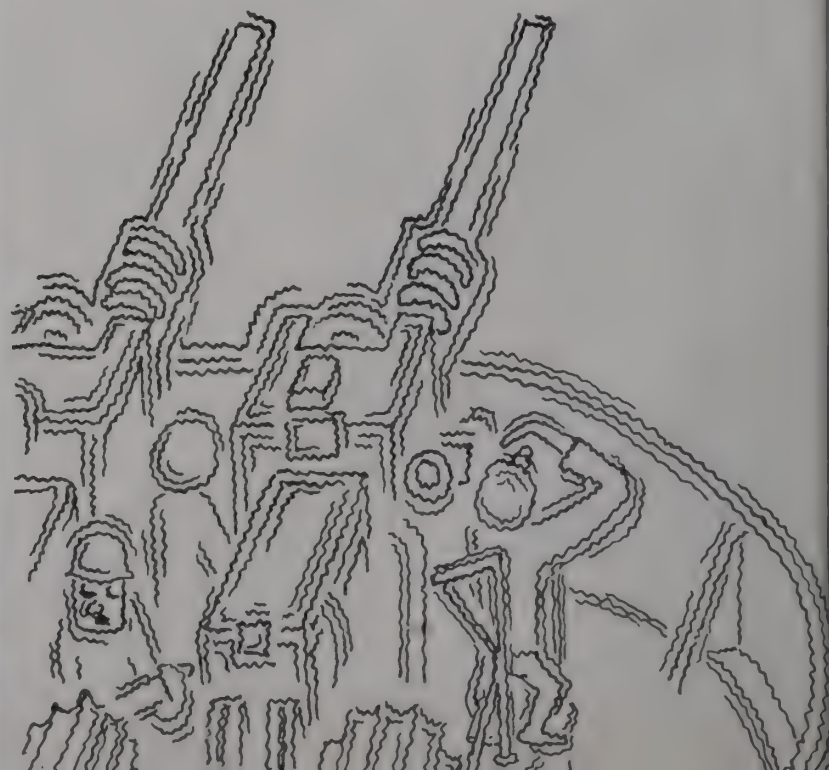

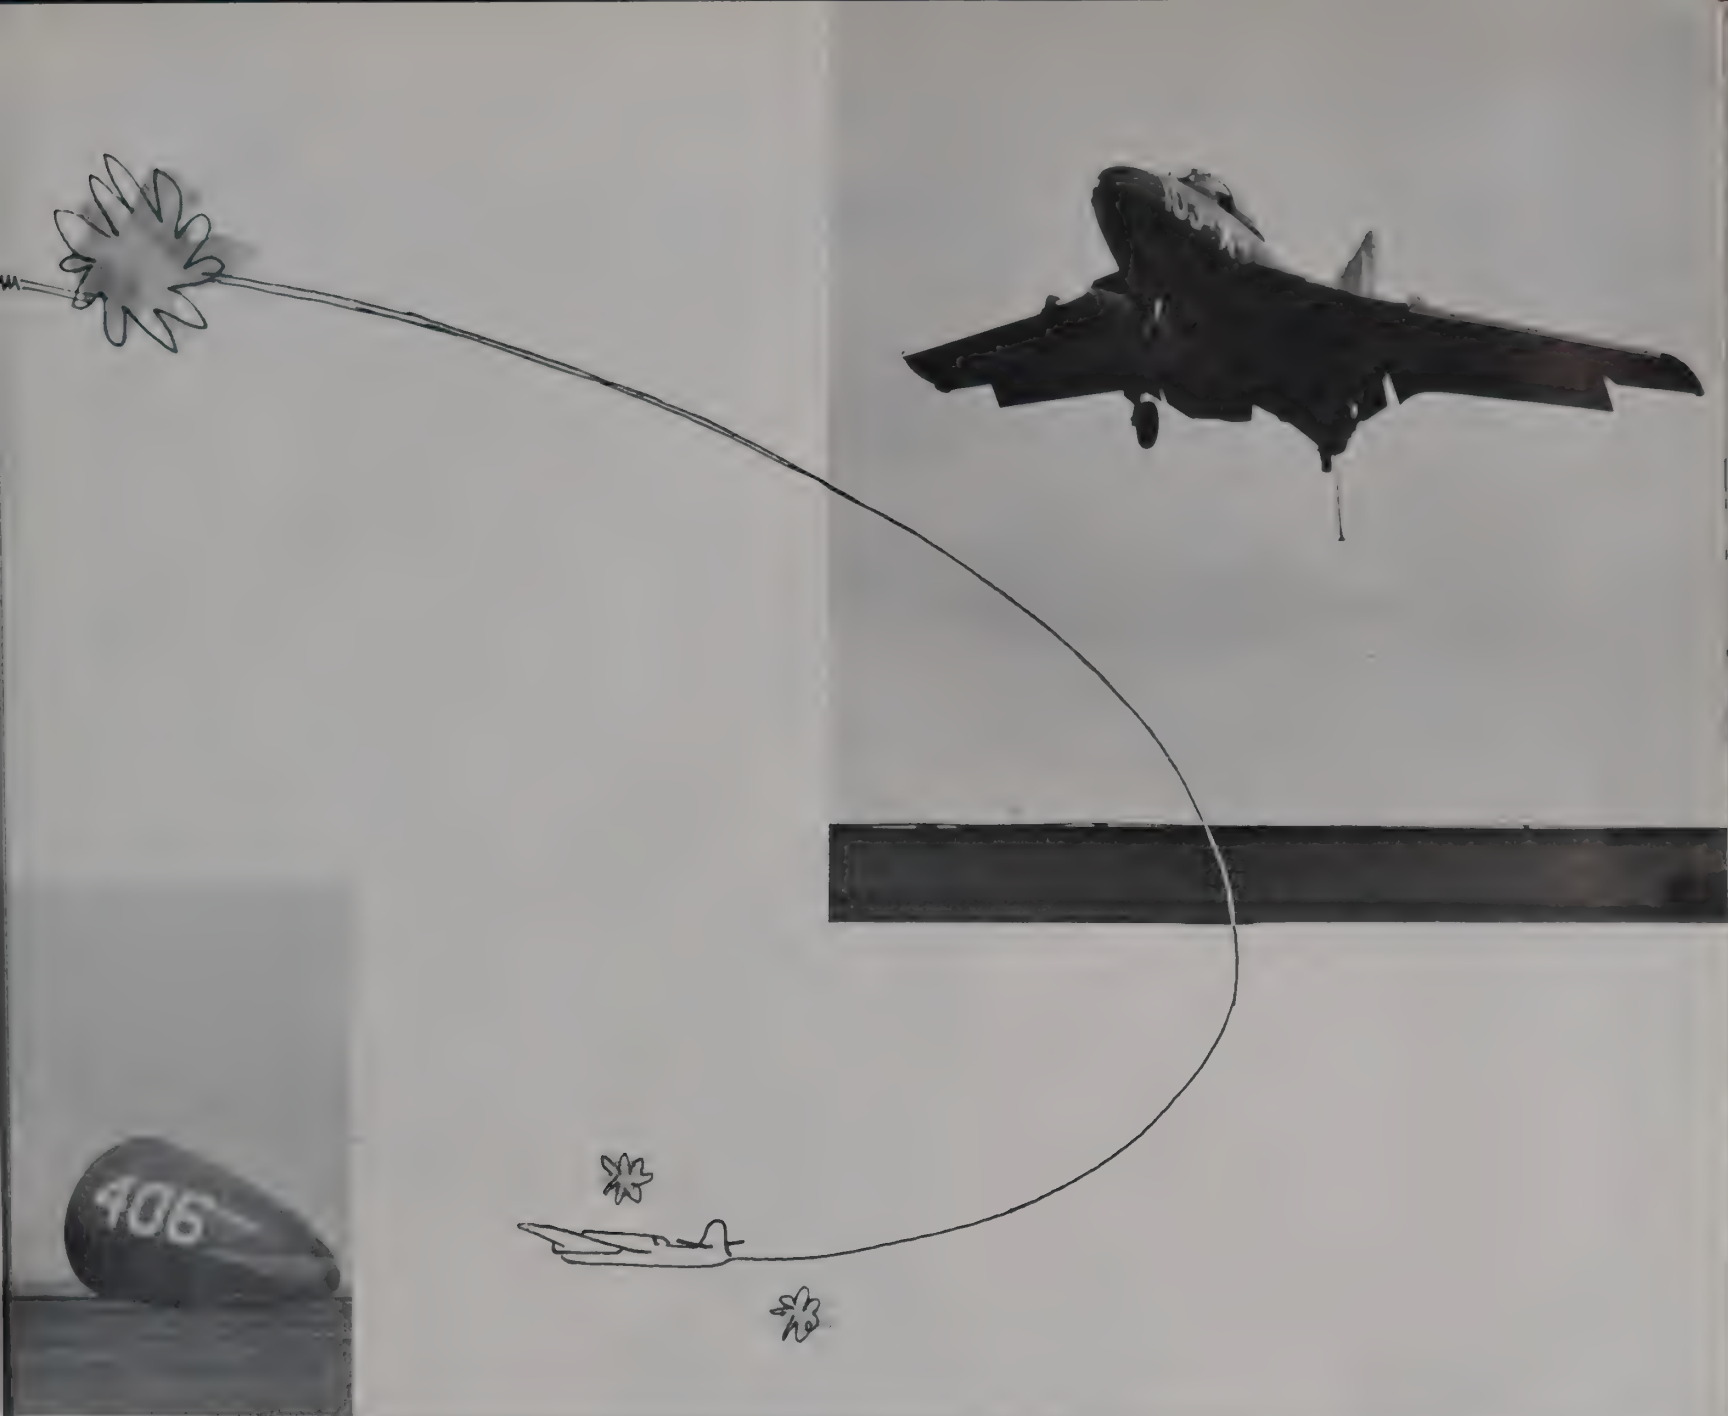

It was late in May that Air Group TWO joined us for carquals. Vultures' Row was more popular than ever as the Grumman Cougars were unveiled... Those swept wings were 3-D all the way!... So who's counting wave-offs, anyway?

Then came the kidney punch. Underway Training Exercise was the innocuous title.... And the part of the test we passed was being "underway". We took a pasting at the critique — but our spirit was not broken. Captain Clark had requested the workout and thereby proved a point... that a new crew can't be assimilated overnight. We pointed for ORI....

Saturday 13 June..."A snappy sailor is a happy sailor" someone once said. Well, we must have looked like the most contented boys in San Diego when RADM Hickey and CAPT Clark passed down the erect rows....

Hours of preparation, and not knowing what uniform would be required until the night before (some chosen few had to break out whites) paid off handsomely....

At the Conference Hall, Balboa Park . . . With the Clarks, the Manns, the Ambassadors,

the Meyers Sisters, smooth music, good chow'

and plenty of beer—we had a party . . .

GENTLEMEN, IT

Although the air operations scheduled for us from 8 to 12 June were shifted to the YORKTOWN to give us more loading time before deployment, we still "pushed it" to finish up. CDR Mann jumped right into the thick of it when he relieved CDR Boyle as exec on 6 June. From 20 to 30 June the storerooms divulged a thousand F2H2 parts, and gobbled up unending crane loads of tires, toothpaste, fresh fruit and fuel oil — while we wrestled with personal problems... where to hide the car and, oh yeah, the wife and four kids... how to pay the bill at the Mex Village....

Then on 29 and 30 June — "Air Group Eleven reporting aboard sir where do I bunk?" The HAPPY VALLEY, just returned from you know where, stood by sympathetically. But we couldn't halt that feeling....

LOOKS AS THOUGH THE HONEYMOON IS OVER....

YES, IT IS....

"Hold that gangway — I've changed my mind I"...but this wasn't the Lurline, so belay that last word. We knew too well that this departure from San Diego wasn't like the previous half dozen—a good six months and 20,000 miles of steaming lay ahead before we would again see these parents, wives and children scattered on the dock or throughout the country.... We returned their half-hearted waves with the same sad and proud feeling.... We were glad when Ballast Point finally slipped from sight. With effort, we turned our thoughts ahead, to that papaya paradise beyond the bow....

Filming the "Caine", change of command,
and the spectacular
crash during ORI...

The outline in TIME magazine told almost everything . . .

COMMAND SHIFT: Admiral Arthur W. Radford, new J. C. S Chairman, takes salute on carrier as he turns over Pacific Fleet to Admiral Felix B. Stump at Pearl Harbor . . .

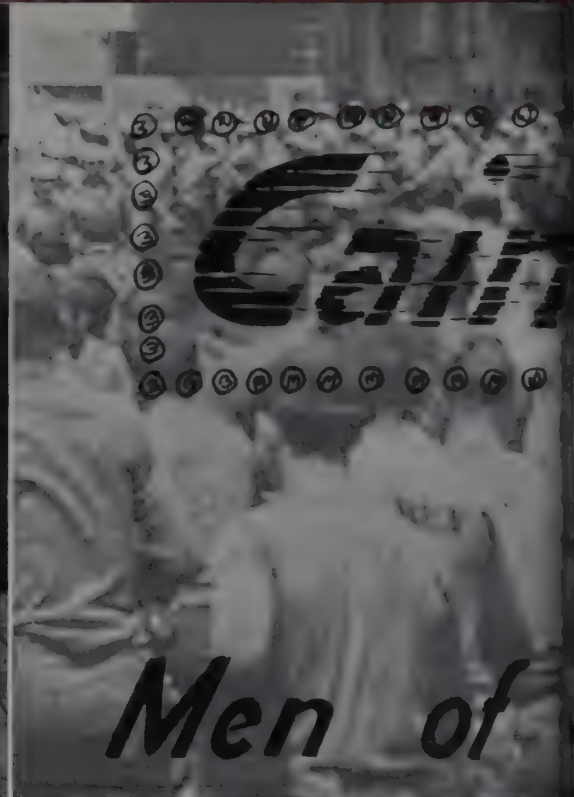

Except that "carrier" — which did not prefer to remain anonymous — was the KEARSARGE.

But ceremony was without flaw otherwise . . .

Painstaking care went into the preparations that fine Hawaiian day as we proudly monopolized Baker 24 and 25. We didn't even mind having to dig out our whites . . .

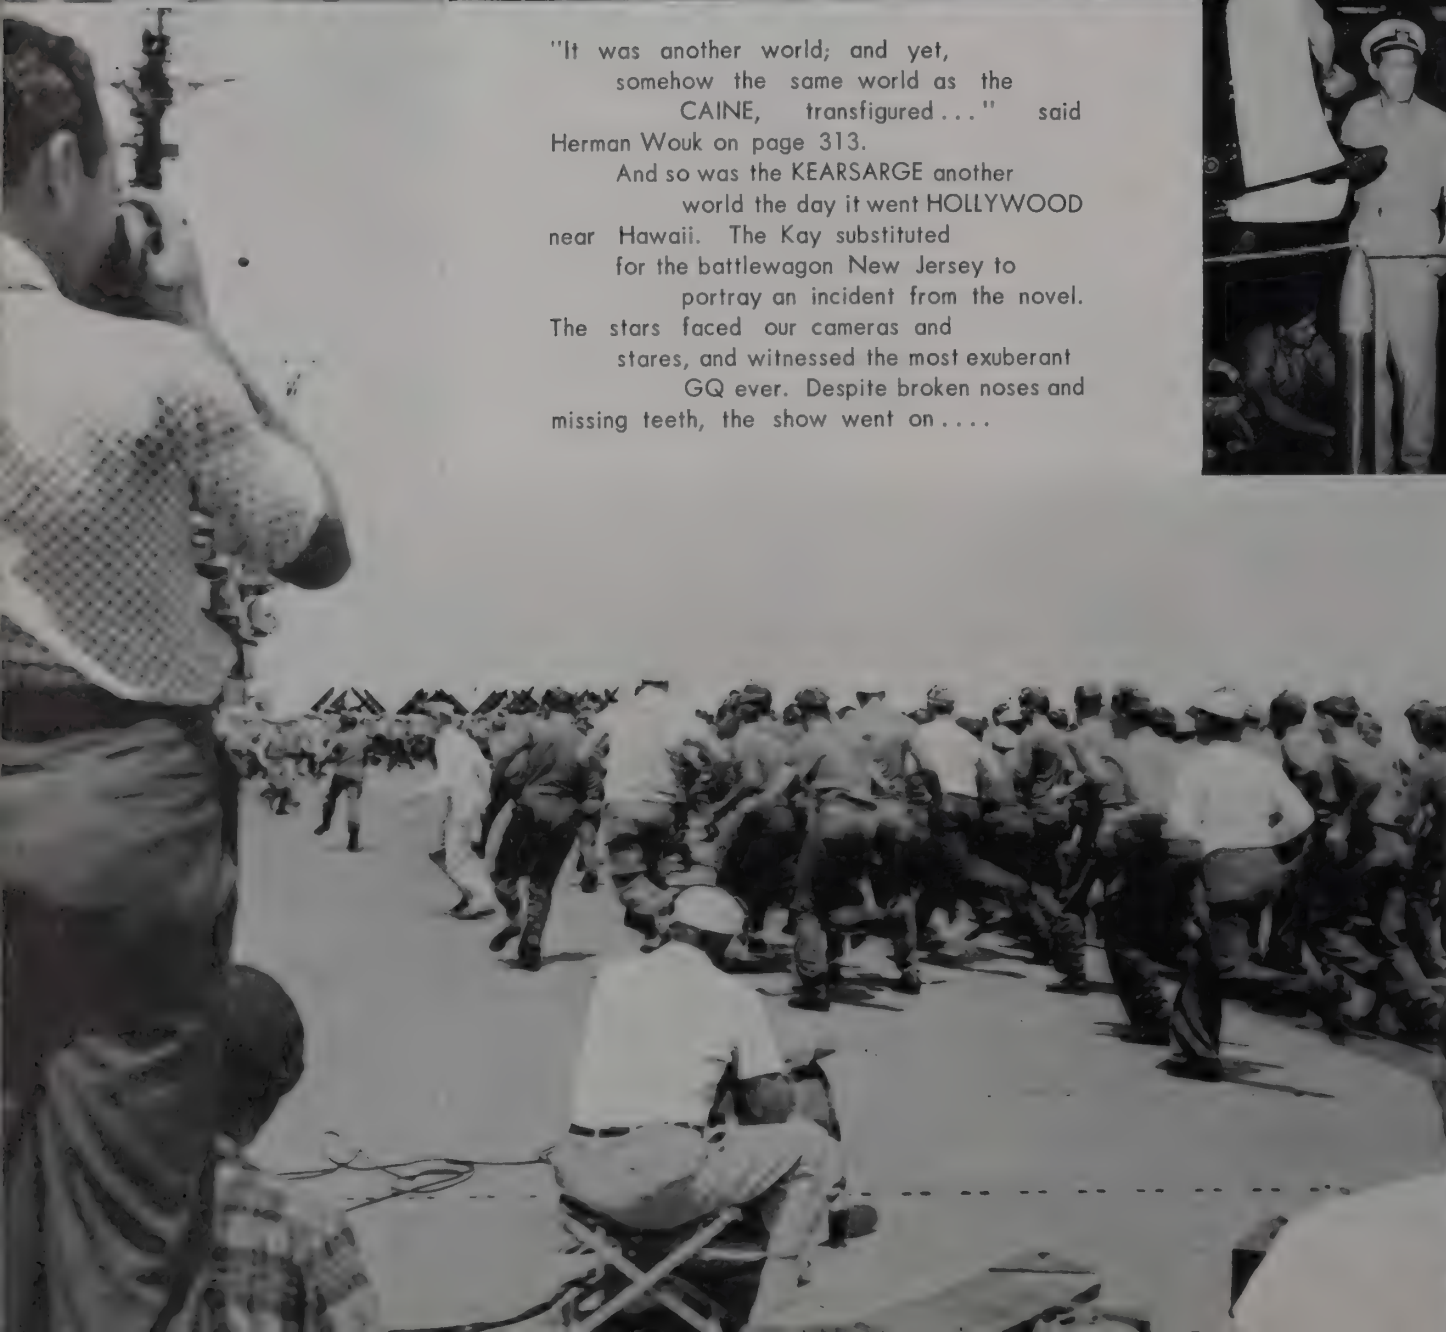

"It was another world; and yet, somehow the same world as the CAINE, transfigured..." said Herman Wouk on page 313.

And so was the KEARSARGE another world the day it went HOLLYWOOD near Hawaii. The Kay substituted for the battlegwagon New Jersey to portray an incident from the novel. The stars faced our cameras and stares, and witnessed the most exuberant GQ ever. Despite broken noses and missing teeth, the show went on....

KEARSARGE, EXCELLENT — AIR GROUP ELEVEN, OUTSTANDING . . . .

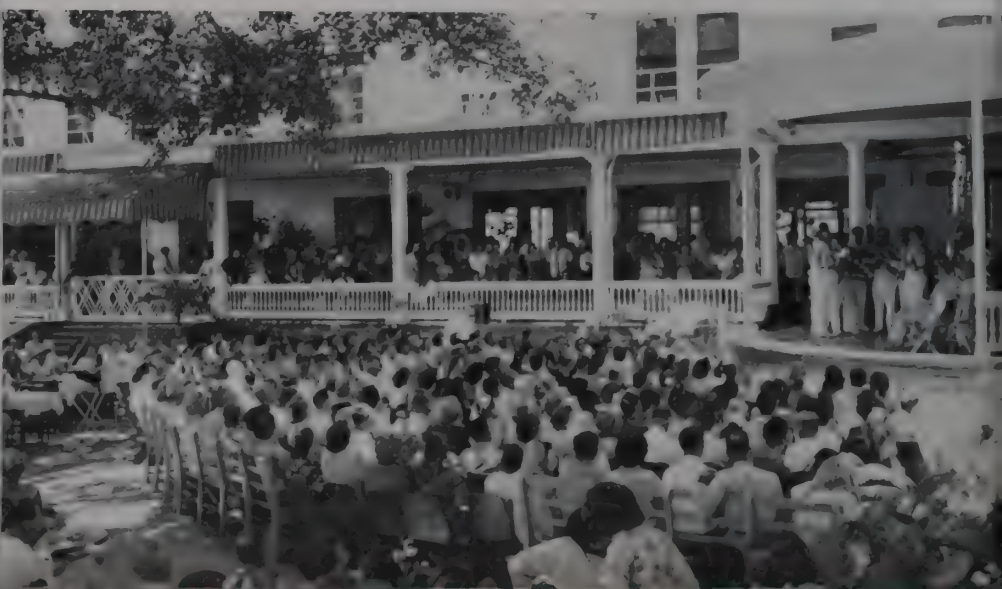

...THREE DAYS OF LIVIN'...

Our high score in ORI paid off. The skipper gave us three days of liberty and even, bless 'im, 0700 reveille....

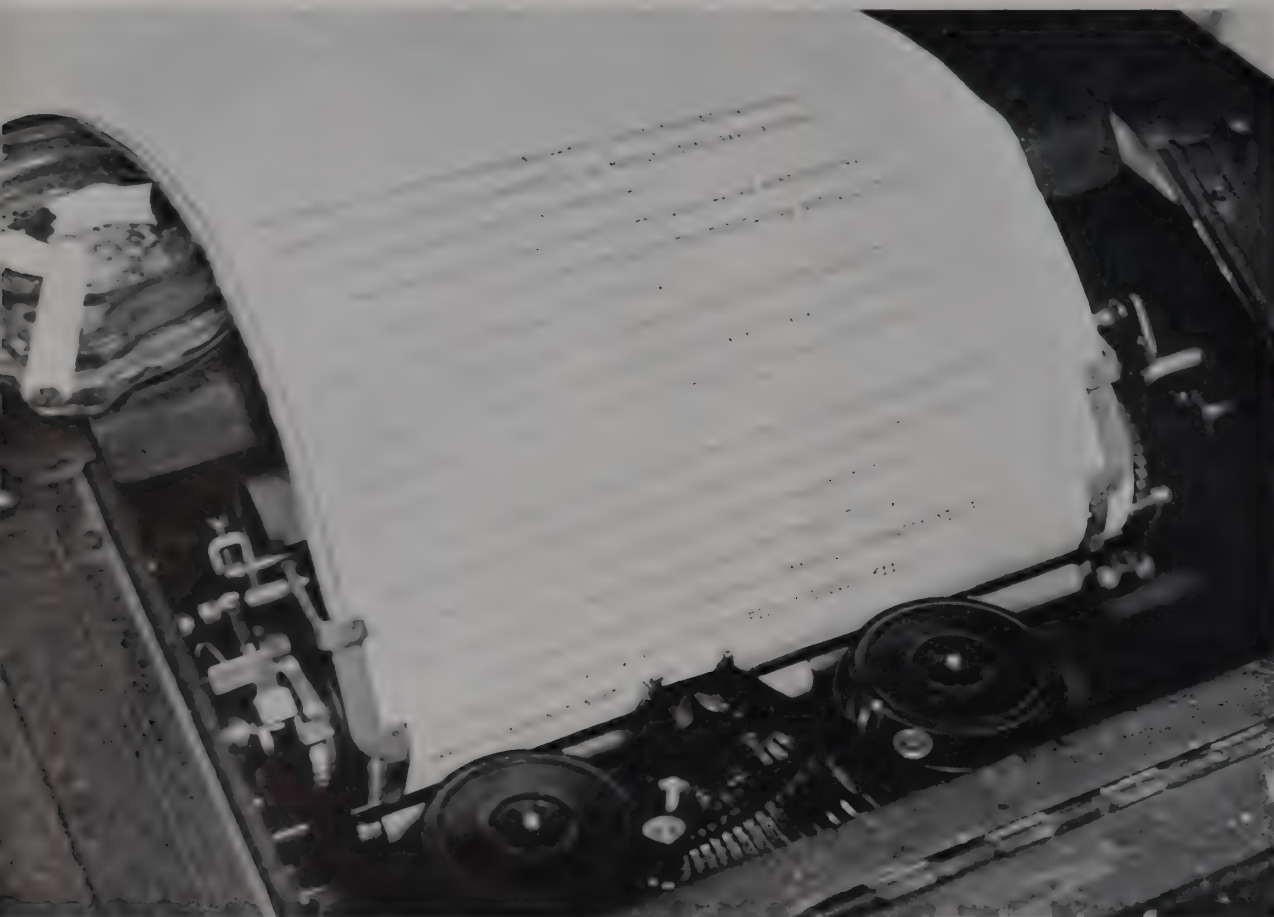

waiian liberty is expensive and exhausting. In other words, we're broke, we're bushed, and we sail for Japan in the morning . . .

TRUCE ...

The IMC voice said, "The representatives of the United Nations and Communist forces signed an armistice agreement ten minutes ago." Most of us felt good . . . but there was no shouting or band playing.

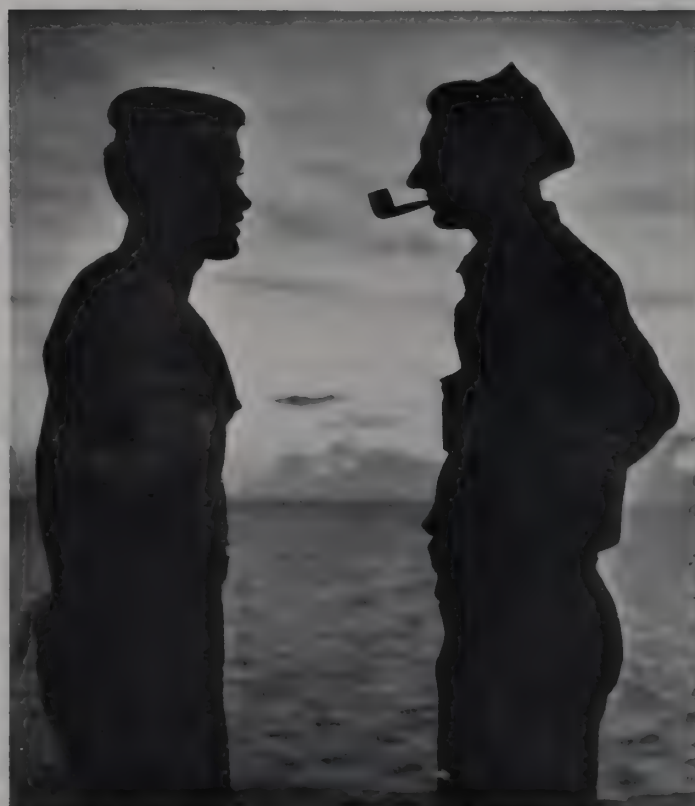

Just an expressionless "How about that?" or "Finally I" . . . soon followed by a low keyed "Where do we go from here?"

It had been expected every day for a week . . . though no one would bet on what moves a wily enemy might make in the global game of chess.

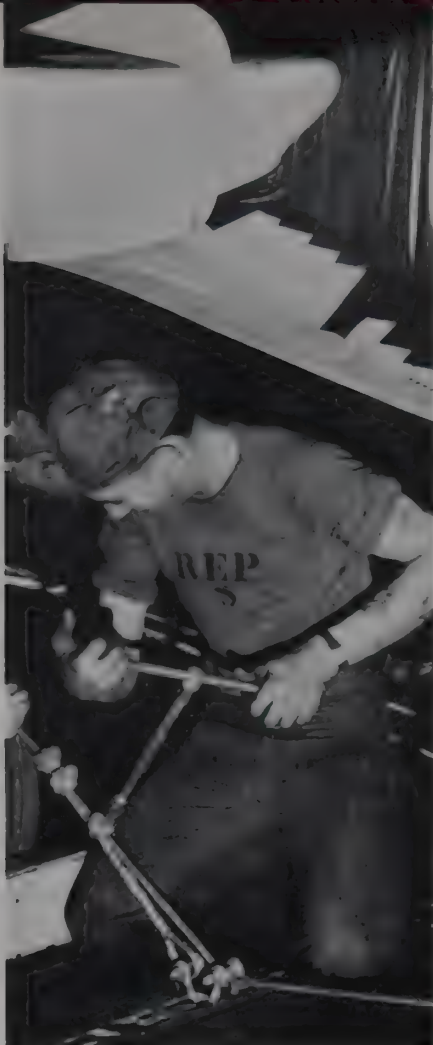

Minutes after the announcement, the shipboard routine was back to normal.

But we did a lot of thinking that evening and for the next week. Would our tour be cut short? Would we stay on the line as long? Maybe we'll hit Sidney and Melbourne ... "Maybe I'll get out early..."

A number of unknown quantities were involved . . . but two things were certain: One, we were still headed west; two, someone had to relieve the PHIL SEA.

A few on board were a little disappointed when the Panmunjom talks cooled off the hot war. They were the younger of us, on a first Korean cruise, perhaps pilots getting their first crack at combat or World War II vets flying jets for the first time. But the rest of us were entirely pleased by the thought of no hostilities. . . . And we met up with a gal on the way over LOLA by name. She was a big, hefty critter. She nearly cornered us on several encounters, and had everyone from the skipper to the scullery gang in a tither. . . .

The outcome, you remember, was too many turns with the rudder, not enough on the screws, to keep us from Yokosuka for an extra three days. . . .

It's a treat to get your feet in the old Yokos'ka mud . . . . Yeh it is. Maybe the first time.

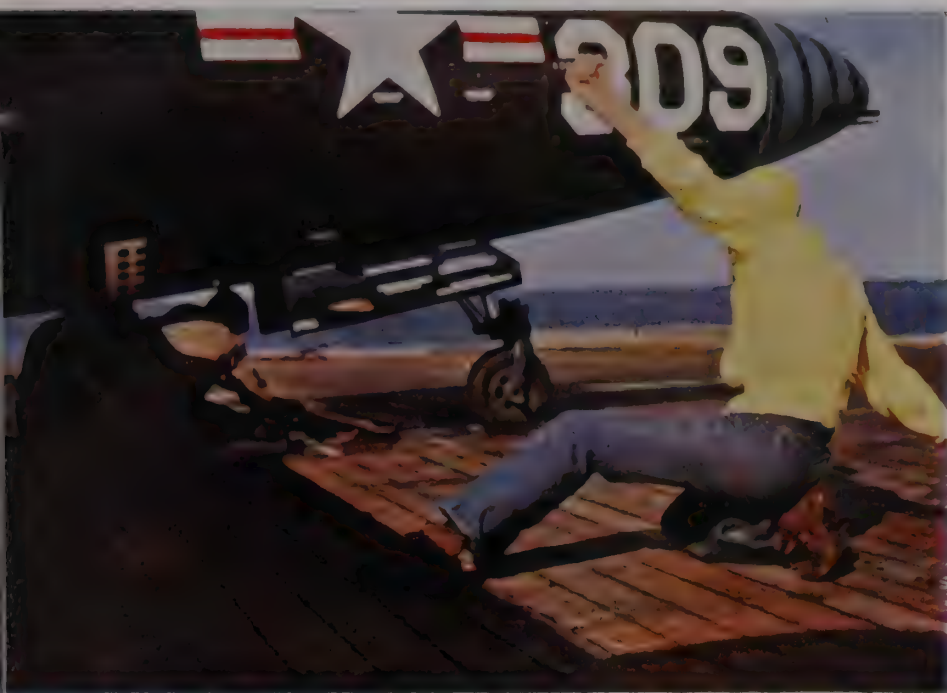

Well, it was the first time over for a lot of guys . . . . untried troops who had never tasted Kirin, Asahi, Nippon . . . . As for shopping, better wait till Hong Kong . . . .

We stayed three days. Old "Pier 47" had gone home. So we left the PRINCETON resting at Piedmont after her record-breaking 63 days out, and wended our way to the line . . . .

THE KAY RETURNS TO 77

"Surface vessels bearing 345° to 000°..."

Task Force 77 loomed ahead, wispy wakes weaving circles in the sea... To the Asiatic eye, it was the same task force we had left some 165 days before. A few new ships to be sure, but many familiar hull numbers appeared in the binocs as we took an anxious look around. Some well-mouthed voice calls came up on the CI.... "Glad to have you back with us. Yours is a reputation of a hard working and hard fighting ship." said Jehovah.

Yes, we were back "on the line". Now to start counting the days....

FLIGHT QUARTERS, FLIGHT

GOSH, IT'S QUIET....

No tension. No flak holes. No continuous roar. Let's face it boys, this is strictly for the ride — compared to last tour. Steer course 090... The truce is set to last until the end of January at least.... The smoking lamp is out throughout the ship.... This is a drill.... What happened to Typhoon Myrtle anyway?... Pipe sweepers.... MDI has it that some Chief is takin' bets we'll be home by Thanksgiving; must be the Kearsarge women are revising our deployment schedule.... Very well.... Execute to follow, turn 9 (no shackle).... stand by, execute.... The smoking lamp is lit....

Reveille, reveille! All hands (except nite crews) heave out....

It was readily apparent that the truce didn't change everything....

Paint, steel, salt water, and high octane fuel being what they were, the war against "Crud and corruption" continued in dead earnest. How often it's occurred to us that it's about time the Navy started building stainless steel ships....Until they do, break out the chippers, brushes, wrenches....

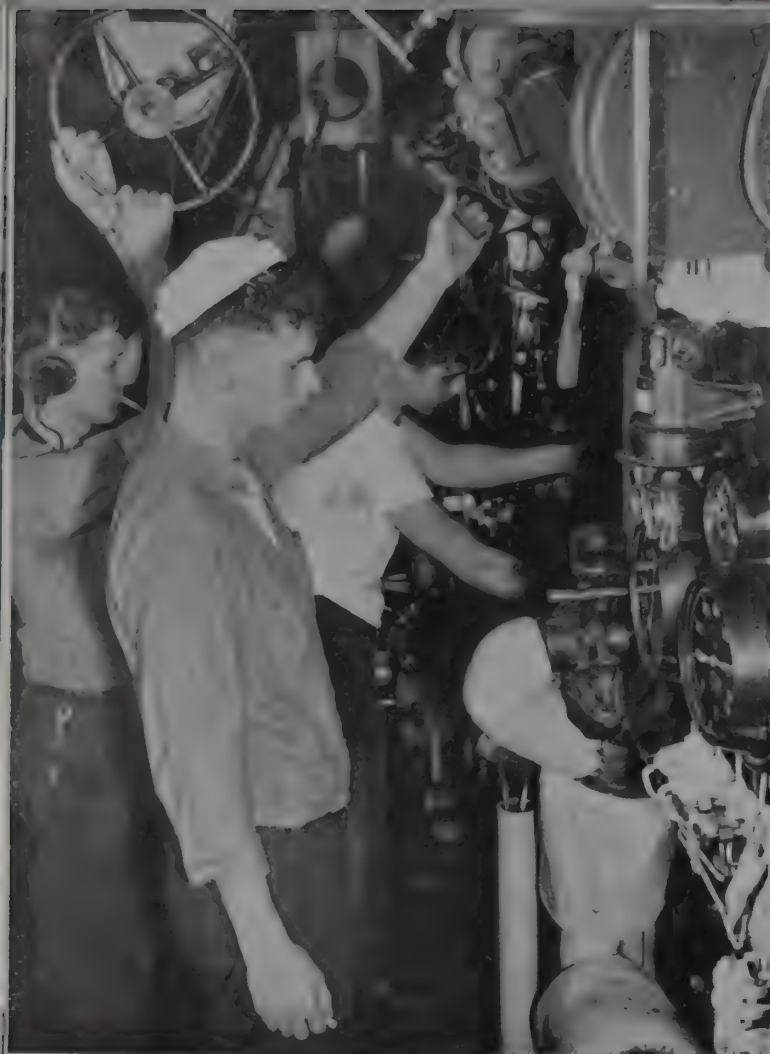

Germ warfare ...

On deck, condition three,

How's the new exec at mast?

Hear he used to be

CAG eleven....

First week out the AJ-1's came aboard, and left with a few pieces of our island....

A few sunny days, but most of the time we did little more than steam in circles waiting for the weather to clear . . .

At 0530, flight quarters; 0600, secure from flight quarters . . . Well, it gave us time for other diversions. KEAR came into its own, with new equipment, two channels, day-long broadcasting, and nightly news over the IMC . . . Some guys took to balsa, glue and dope, some to strings (if they could find a place to practice). The Kearsaga, sporting a new masthead, ground out reams of news, photos, laughs and lovelies . . . Those things (not necessarily the strings) do a lot for a man's morale . . .

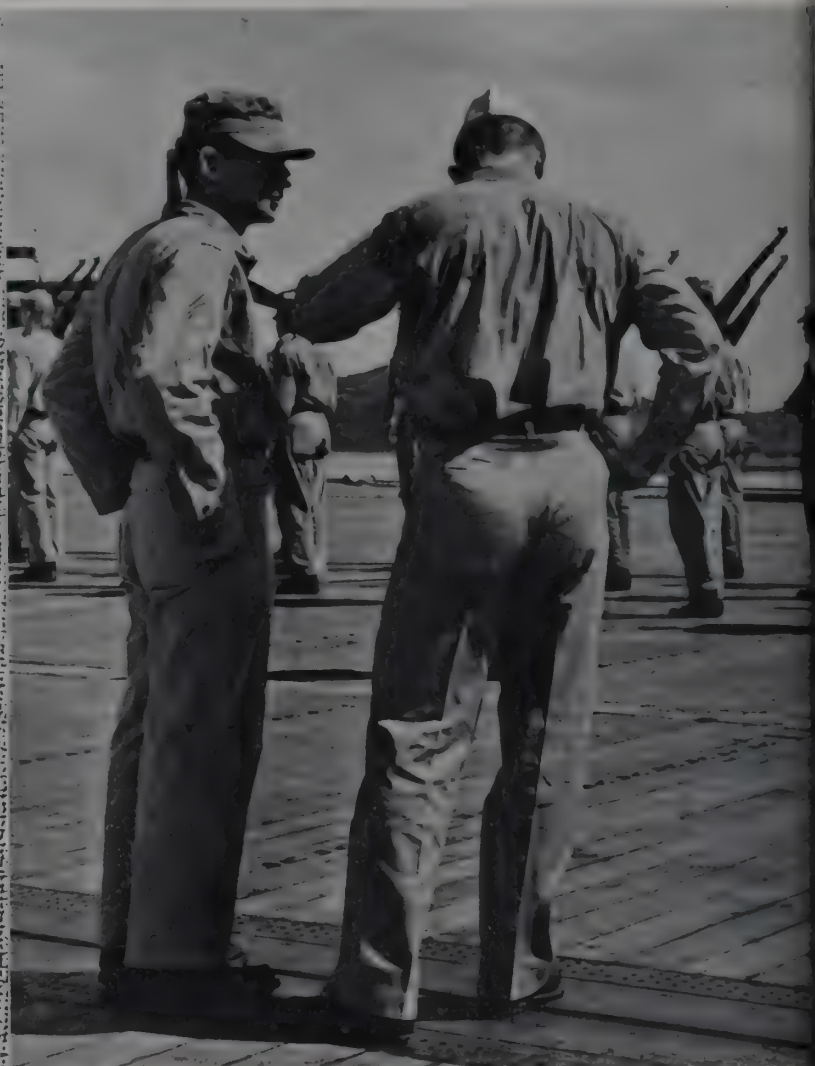

"LAKE CHAMPLAIN depart TF, return
Yokosuka for port catapult repairs.
ComCarDiv 1 transfer at sea to KEARSARGE at 122300 Z". Yoiks! That's tomorrow!
Evacuate the flag offices! Did you see the plans the Admiral sent? Cut a hole in this bulkhead, fill that one up....
this is an all-night job....

Here they come - by helo
 and high lines. Files, boxes, bags, crates. Main comm,
 the flag office and flag air intelligence looked like warehouses. But by the time we turned over CTF 77 to the Yorktown and headed for Sasebo we had pushed paths thru the boxes and met a few of the people on the staff.

One day in Sasebo.
Old Sandbar Norton was the first one up the gangway. We bade farewell to LCDR Lawrence,
our gun boss since pre-

commissioning, then watched 150 GI's and airmen file aboard for the trip south. "What is this, a ship or a ferry service?" Some of the crusty old timers wondered....

Man overboard! Must be one of those landlubbers we took aboard....

No, it was just Oscar the dummy. But it kept us alert, and the whirly bird gave us a good show.... Then one dark and stormy night typhoon Tess came into view on our PPI scope, providing a rare picture, but also forcing us to substitute a night of poker for precious Hong Kong liberty...

Late on 18 September we dropped the hook, a long way from the Tuborg Beer sign at Queen's Pier. Some eager beavers put on their civvies first, and then worried about transportation....

hey Joe - armstrong, Joe!

The days tumbled together into one rush of activity—fittings, phone calls home, silk and ivory shopping, picture taking...

The duty
was still the dirty duty
with security
watch added.

But exercises scheduled for the 26th beckoned. A final muster at quarters to count noses, we pulled up the gang-

our last look at Hong Kong,
the romantic city of twenty

VADM "Jocko" Clark made a quick trip over when we hit Sasebo, to present the Bronze Star

Then, to the sweet strains "Movin' On", we moved on—to the line.

Those ten days in port don't last long. There were new opportunities for rest camp, for those that "lucked out" last time in. VC-35 and VC-61 became "shore based" at Atsugi for those few days, and our "duration of the cruise" crew were being plucked away for new duty stations one by one...

For most of us, Yokosuka was getting to be an overseas San Diego, and more than one Kay sailor went "asiatic."

Even those who still insisted there's no comparison between a hamburger and a chocolate malt, and sake and sukiyaki, agreed nonetheless that these people are terrific. The kids are dolls, the women dainty.... We learned to respect their culture and customs — and shared their appreciation of Fuji-san. (Altho darkroom dabbling came up bas-relief, this picture of the beloved mountain is an actual photo...)

Here we go again. Took a run out

...the new way

the old way...

November 1, 2 and 3 came and went like any other day at sea -- we turned to, stood watch, ate our three squares... But 4 November was different. On that day CAPT Neblett relieved CAPT Clark in a flite deck ceremony followed by a formal inspection... We all wished CAPT Clark well; he was an excellent skipper....

CAPT CLARK:

"Would that I could impart to you my feeling of boundless pride in having commanded this ship. Would that I could adequately express my appreciation for the efforts of this crew. . . .

This team of ship, planes and men is without peer in my experience . . ."

Among other things, the ceremony called for a cake. Well, then it started! We had the usual landing cakes, and the Marines celebrated their 178th birthday . . . but the pastry prize goes to the "16,000th bridge watch" cake, — awarded to B.P. Jones of the Black Shoe Navy. CAPT Neblett soon realized how he'd be spending his evenings . . .

B I N G O,

The fourth tour proved to be an enjoyable one. Ship spirit sparked plenty of activity — our boxing team's second win, over the ORISKANY pelters, bingo on the hangar deck and in the wardroom, and handy bay one bazaars for Christmas shopping . . .

And on 18 Nov. we

The Philippines — a name that for many years called to our minds thoughts of a brave, spirited people, a new, independent republic, a nation struggling to rise to democratic government. Arriving just after the slightly stormy election of Magsaysay, we of the Kay at last had an opportunity to see Manila, the Philippine capital.

OUR FIRST VISIT TO

Most of us spent our time swimming and sunning, as liberty could be very expensive....

We entertained the Commander of the Philippine Navy and his friends, toured the ship with a group of cadets, and somewhere, somehow, some of the boys ran into no less than the Vice President of the United States.

Well, nothing like runnin' into folks from back home. ...

THANKSGIVING

No sooner had we left the Philippines than the first of the late-year holidays was upon us. It was a time to pause and be thankful — and there was much for which to give thanks: the truce, the fewness of our casualties (those few being sorely felt, however), the approach of the cruise's end... a thousand little things that had brought enjoyment, interest, inspiration to the last six months.

For them all, a prayer of thanksgiving led by our spiritual directors—and a big turkey dinner for good measure....

stand by

Semper replenishment - from dawn to dusk, from sunny September to those early winter days when the seething sea breathes up a frozen fog...

Highlight of replenishment day sighting a "volcano."
But our own three inch guns belched more flame than all the volcanoes we ever saw....

...CAG and his candy-striped jetmobile, cookie and some golden brown turkeys, some of the aviation tinsnippers,
and no, not the inside
of a pinball machine —
colorful "combat".

But back to replenishment. A thousand crates of oranges, a million bags of sugar, thumped against our decks, bulkheads, shoulders, ladders and shins before eventually finding their resting place deep in the hull's hidden reaches, known only to the supply department and the working parties...and the culprits who swiped sugar for their coffee messes...

Avgas, fuel oil and provisions we'll always need, and of course a mountain of incoming mail is no trouble at all to transfer at sea—but the tons upon tons of bombs that used to rumble thru the hangar bay, we can do nicely without. Sure, a few rounds of ammo is all right now and then, but please, no bombs . . .

Last tour. The cruise nears its end. Didn't make it home by Thanksgiving after all, did we chief? (We'll have to hustle to make it by Christmas...) Mustaches grow longer, hearts lighter, and we count the days 'till our last time in Yokosuka.... Especially counting the days were the players in "Mister Roberts," a venture cooked up by flag and ship PIOs. Plans called for performances in Japan during our few days in port....

... and here ends the last chapter. The cruise is finished. All that remains, again, is that "happy business of returning home." But it has been a good cruise. Thankful for our own sake, and more for the sake of the men on Korean soil, by the truce we were spared the great evil of open warfare. Consequently, although the possibility of new hostilities kept us on alert, ours was a tour with a "peacetime" flavor: we trained and we travelled. Having brushed typhoons, and visited Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong and the Philippine Islands, we come away richer in experience of the sea, of the air over the sea, and of foreign peoples and customs...

And now, to that "happy business." Ahead lie two weeks of steaming, and San Diego. There, while greeting those close to us, we must say goodbye to many others who have been close to us for the last eight months. To Air Group Eleven the KEARSARGE wishes "good flying" ... such as we have enjoyed with them since last May. Some of us will stay aboard the Mighty KAY for many months to come. For others, return to the states means new assignment. But regardless of how our paths might diverge, our close associations have formed a bond that will persist, and have given us memories that will be renewed in later years by a glance at the places and faces in this cruise book...

The 2nd of January, 1954. Time to go. Fuji-san never forgets a friend, and she glistens anew to bid us farewell and smooth sailing... home.

Flite deck shoes — the "airdales". Like a gigantic play: the flight deck, the stage....
0530 - "Reveille for the Air department"
The curtains part, "Brakes on — chalk'er up,"
"Watch the elevator" and V-3's at work....
The aircraft are armed — V-6.

Upstage, green shirts darting among the aircraft
the oxygen men of V-4.... We're ready for action.

"Start the Jets." The starters of V-4 grind out a mighty current.... The jets are ready to launch.

"White flag I" — V-2 now commands the scene.

A high-sign, a press of a finger — a jet screams
from the catapult....

The last plane has left our flight deck stage intermission. Act two, the planes return.

Airdales wonder where they've been, what they've seen... but not for long, there's work to do.

With gas hose and oil can, V-7 brings down
the curtain. Next show immediately....

Carrier Division 1

Commander, Carrier Division One is more frequently referred to as Com Car Div 1, CCD-1, or simply "the flag." RADM William D. Johnson has been the carrier division commander since 2 November 1952, when he broke his flag on the BON HOMME RICHARD in the Sea of Japan. Since that time, he, CAPT Young Chief of Staff, and the staff itself have seen little of the U.S., coming overseas in early 1953 to command Task Force 77 from the LAKE CHAMPLAIN, and later on the Kay. One of these years, they'll make it home for Christmas....

Viva! Paul Hamilton Better than Better too

"Therefore do not kick or beat upon this monster which provides you with so many..."

We puff and pant
To make 'em roll,
Wanting to please
Flight deck control.

But comes a day
We'll have the laughs;
We'll be away
On distant paths.

Then let them shout
And pull their hair,
Shake their fists,
And scream and swear.

You've heard of men
Who pull their hair,
Shake their fists,
And shout and swear.

They rant and rave
When things go wrong;
Blow their tops,
Can't get along.

These are men of
Flight deck control
Whose continuous shouts
Are go, go, go!

And we're the men
Who grunt and groan,
Strain our backs,
Push planes alone.

But
we won't be here!
